Shakespeare and Lecoq

A Practical Guide for Actors, Directors, Students and Teachers

Abigail Rokison-Woodall, The Shakespeare Institute, UK & Ed Woodall

Written by theatre practitioner Ed Woodall, who trained with Lecoq himself, and Shakespeare academic Abigail Rokison-Woodall, it takes the reader through a detailed process, beginning with warm ups and ensemble-building, and moving through explorations of the story, the world of the play, the text, character emotion, thought and physicality and staging.

Antony and Cleopatra

Shakespeare: The Critical Tradition

Edited by Marga Munkelt, University of Munster, Germany

This volume offers, in separate sections, both critical opinions about Antony and Cleopatra across the centuries and an evaluation of their positions within, and their impact on, the reception of the play. The chronological arrangement of the text-excerpts engages the readers in a direct and unbiased dialogue, whereas the introduction provides a critical evaluation from a current stance, including modern theories and methods. This volume makes a major contribution to our understanding of the play and of the traditions of Shakespearean criticism surrounding it as they have developed from century to century.

Shakespeare in the Theatre: Tina Packer

Katharine Goodland, College of Staten Island, USA

This is the first comprehensive analysis of the contribution of Tina Packer to Shakespearean theatre in the United States. Beginning with her 1st production in 1971, Katharine Goodland covers the 5 decades since the founding of Shakespeare & Company in Lenox, Massachusetts in 1978. Drawing on new interviews with the original casts and creative teams as well as Tina Packer herself, and featuring 12 in-depth case studies of productions, it considers all of her professional Shakespeare productions in their cultural and historical context and illuminates the embedded nature of regional Shakespeare in communities across the United States.

Shakespeare in the Theatre: Sarah Siddons and John Philip Kemble

Fiona Ritchie, McGill University, Montreal, Canada

Siblings Sarah Siddons (1755-1831) and John Philip Kemble (1757-1823) were the most famous British actors of the late-18th and early-19th centuries and were known for their work with Shakespeare. This book examines their careers on the London stage, and considers their work together (including performances of King John, Coriolanus and Macbeth). The actors' careers were also marked by political upheaval and two major Shakespeare scandals: the staging of Vortigern (a fake Shakespearean play) in 1796 and the Old Price Riots of 1809 (during which the audience challenged Siddons's and Kemble's perceived attempts to control Shakespeare).

Interruptions in Early Modern English Drama

Michael M. Wagoner, United States Naval Academy, USA

This is the first full-length study to analyse interruption as a dramatic form in the works of William Shakespeare, Ben Jonson and John Fletcher. Through close analysis of dialogue and punctuation, stage directions, such as exists, entrances and music, and conventions of plot in early modern play texts, Michael Wagoner reveals how interruptions are integral to shaping characterisation, building interiority and indicative of aspects of authorial style. From the Ghost's appearance in Hamlet to Celia's frightful speech in Volpone, interruptions are an overlooked linguistic and dramatic form that delineates the balance of power with a scene.

Money and Magic in Early Modern Drama

Edited by David Hawkes, Arizona State University, USA

This volume considers three ideological forces in early modern England: money, magic and the theatre. The invisible nature of money's power struck many contemporaries as magical and contributed to the hysteria behind witch-hunts. Theatre, simultaneously, emerged as a medium well-suited to representing the powers of magic. Part One considers an array of figures ranging from Plautus through John Lyly to Christopher Marlowe, while remaining focused on the nexus of money and magic. Part Two concentrates on Shakespeare, whose diagnosis of the relations between finance, witchcraft and the stage is explored in Timon of Athens, The Tempest and A Winter's Tale.

Falkland Sound

Brad Birch

April 1982. The Falkland Islands are invaded by Argentine forces. The shockwaves reverberate around the world. For some, it's overdue: seen in the gradual sweep to decolonise the world it is thought of as an inevitable next step. For others, the act strikes at the very heart of British identity.

Brad Birch's lyrical new play turns modern history into a theatrical epic, depicting a community and way of life turned upside down

Beautiful Thing

Jonathan Harvey

Teenage boys Ste and Jamie are neighbours on a South London estate. Jamie is more knowledgeable about The Sound of Music than football, while classmate Ste never misses a sports day.

30 years on from its initial publication, Jonathan Harvey's iconic, coming-out and coming-of-age story set in the nineties still resonates with ideas on community, friendship, rites of passage and what it is to be 16 and in love.

This edition is published to coincide with the revival at London's Stratford East theatre, in September, 2023.

Death of England: Closing Time

Roy Williams & Clint Dyer

There are two sides to every story. Grieving the loss of the family shop and their dreams destroyed, Denise and daughter-in-law Carly are left to pick up the pieces of their relatives' mistakes. Will all be forgiven? Jo Martin (Doctor Who) and Hayley Squires (I, Daniel Blake) play Denise and Carly in this thought-provoking drama that explores family dynamics, race, colonialism and cancel culture. Clint Dyer (Othello) and Roy Williams (Sucker Punch) reunite to write this powerful final chapter of the award-winning Death of England series.

Galatea

John Lyly

Edited by Andy Kesson

Translated by Duffy

Illustrated by Mydd Pharo

Adapted by Emma Frankland & Subira Joy

Galatea is an unapologetically queer tale of love, magic, and the importance of welcoming outsiders, originally written in the 1580s by John Lyly. Two young trans people find love whilst escaping oppression; a shipwrecked migrant searches for his family; goddesses clash; parents fret; an alchemist brews magic and a teenage Cupid sets hearts on fire — causing chaos and near disaster. Adapted by Emma Frankland and Subira Joy, and edited by Andy Kesson, this edition was published to coincide with the world premiere at Brighton Festival, in May 2023.

Shooting Hedda Gabler

Nina Segal

When offered the lead part in a Norwegian film adaptation of Hedda Gabler, an American actress seizes the opportunity to escape Hollywood - and gain some artistic credibility. What awaits her in Norway is a film set where reality and fiction are blurred by Henrik, the brilliant and demanding director. As the atmosphere on set becomes increasingly claustrophobic, Henrik becomes fixated on how to end the movie with a bang. Nina Segal's Shooting Hedda Gabler is a radical and affectionate adaptation of Henrik Ibsen's Hedda Gabler, about doing whatever is necessary to get the shot.

Nachtlund

Marius von Mayenburg

Translated by Maja Zade

Modern day Germany. Nicola and Philipp argue as they clear out their late father's house. They find an old painting in the attic of a quaint street scene from 1920s Vienna; the work of a failed artist who abandoned his original vocation for Nazism...

Nicola wants to sell it. Philipp wants to keep it. Philipp's wife Judith wants to burn it. Nachtlund is a mordant satire from Marius von Mayenburg, originally directed by 2023 Tony Award-winner Patrick Marber (Leopoldstadt) about marriage, legacy, the rise of the new right, and the terrible impulses buried deep.

An Actor's Guide to Corporate Role Play

The Best Side-Job for Actors

Syrus Lowe, Freelance practitioner, UK

This book provides actors with everything they need to start and build a side-career in corporate role play, utilizing the brilliant skills they already have in their portfolio. Detailing what corporate role play is, how to do it, how to get the work and how to get re-employed, this book offers up a roadmap of the field, enabling actors to deliver top-quality role plays and evidenced-based developmental feedback time and time again. Like the author's masterclasses, the book includes a range of role play briefs an actor may encounter, each one accompanied by tips on how to execute them successfully.

Badhai

Hijra-Khwaja Sira-Trans Performance across Borders in South Asia
Adnan Hossain, Utrecht University, the Netherlands, Claire Pamment, William & Mary, USA & Jeff Roy, California State Polytechnic University, USA

This is the first book to provide an introduction to badhai that charts its performance throughout South Asia and examines its characteristics and relationship to the differing contexts of Bangladesh, India, and Pakistan. With its repertoire of devotional prayers, songs, dances, and comic repartee performed by socially marginalized trans feminine hijra and khwaja sira, badhai has long been recognized as vital to these communities' identities. For students of theatre and performance, anthropology, religion, gender and cultural studies, the book illuminates an important form of performance, considering its changing status and uncertain future.

Liyuanxi - Chinese 'Pear Garden Theatre'

Josh Stenberg, University of Sydney, Australia

This book offers an engaging introduction to the Hokkien music drama known as liyuanxi ('pear garden theatre'), heir and current expression of one of China's oldest unbroken xiqu ('Chinese opera') traditions. In examining the form, Josh Stenberg considers its history prior to the 20th century, reforms during the Communist era, and accounts for its prominence today. He examines the aesthetics and technique that characterize the form, considers the contribution of some of its key exponents and provides a range of case studies of various plays performed in the repertoire.

Greek Tragedy and the Digital

Edited by George Rodosthenous, University of Leeds, UK & Angeliki Poulou, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Greece

Through the encounter between Greek tragedy and digital media in contemporary performance, this study explores the ways traditional notions and conventions of Greek tragedy, such as the community, the city, the hubris and the mask, have been re-appropriated and challenged through the use of technology in digital and virtual reality theatre. These technological innovations shed light on contemporary adaptations of classical myths, while raising questions about how augmented reality works within interactive and immersive environments. This collection considers issues such as performativity, liveness, immersion, intermediality, the theatre as hypermedia and reception theory in relation to Greek tragedy.

Soviet Theatre during the Thaw

Aesthetics, Politics and Performance
Jesse Gardiner, University of St Andrews, UK

The era known as the Thaw (1953-64) was a crucial period in the history of the Soviet Union. New innovative theatre productions sprung up on the stage once again, old classics from the 1920s and 30s were revived and their authors and directors rehabilitated alongside waves of others who had been repressed during the Stalinist purges. By exploring theatre productions, play texts and cultural debates during this period, this book sheds light on a society in flux, one in which the cultural norms, subjects and hierarchies of the previous era were being rethought.

Performing Statecraft

The Postdiplomatic Theatre of Sovereigns, Citizens, and States

Edited by James R. Ball III, Texas A&M University, USA

What is the role of performance in diplomacy? How can we advance interventions into global politics by artists, scholars, and activists? Performing Statecraft investigates the performances of states, their leaders, and their citizens on an expanded field of the global art of statecraft. This book draws together scholarship on the use of theatre as a soft power tool, arts activism on the world stage, sports performance by heads of state, the performativity of national dress, speechmaking and colonialism, war and medicine, indigenous sovereignties, and performed nationalisms.

The Contemporary History Play

Staging English and American Pasts

Benjamin Poore, University of York, UK

The Contemporary History Play asks what happens when a new mode of interpretation is applied to contemporary history plays and tracks the evolving uses of history in 21st-century playwriting across the UK. Benjamin Poore argues that contemporary

British playwriting that invokes history can be positioned on a spectrum that ranges from recovering untold stories, which offer an additional narrative to dominant understandings of history, to challenging the very foundations of historical knowledge itself.

The Great European Stage Directors Volume 1

Antoine, Stanislavski, Saint-Denis

Edited by Peta Tait, La Trobe University, Melbourne, Australia

This volume assesses the contributions of André Antoine, Konstantin Stanislavski and Michel Saint-

Denis, whose work has influenced theatre and training for over a century. These directors pioneered Naturalism and refined Realism as they experimented with theatrical form including non-Realism. Antoine and Stanislavski's theatre direction proved foundational to the creation of the director's role and artistic vision, and their influential ideas progressively developed through the stylized theatre of Saint-Denis to the innovative contemporary theatre direction of Max Stafford-Clark, Declan Donnellan and Katie Mitchell.

The Great European Stage Directors Volume 2

Meyerhold, Piscator, Brecht

Edited by David Barnett, University of York, UK

This volume surveys and assesses the contributions of Vsevolod Meyerhold, Erwin Piscator and Bertolt Brecht to theatre-making, which richly exemplify the range of ways that directors address dramatic material, theatrical space and their audiences. Their directorial work marks an unmistakable interest in developing the political potential of theatre in the early 20th century, although each director offered more to their actors, collaborators and spectators than simply the staging of politics and the political.

The Great European Stage Directors Volume 3

Copeau, Komisarjevsky, Guthrie

Edited by Jonathan Pitches, University of Leeds, UK

This volume examines the work of directors Jacques Copeau, Theodore Komisarjevsky and Tyrone Guthrie. It explores in detail many of the directors' key productions, including Copeau's staging of Molière's The Tricks of Scapin, Komisarjevsky's signature season of Chekhov plays at the Barnes Theatre and Guthrie's pioneering direction of Shakespeare's plays in North America. This study argues that their work exemplifies the complexity and novelty of the role of theatre directing in the first three-quarters of the 20th century.

The Great European Stage Directors Volume 4

Reinhardt, Jessner, Barker

Edited by Michael Patterson, Late of De Montfort University, UK

In this volume leading scholars assess the contributions of Max Reinhardt, Leopold Jessner and Harley Granville Barker to European theatre. Their work represents the cultural shift from traditional theatre practices of the 19th century to the rise of Modernism and its means of establishing theatre as an art form in its own right. Uncovering the theories and visions of theatre held by Reinhardt, Jessner and Barker, this volume establishes the contribution and importance of these directors in the development of modern theatre and their significance alongside the better-known names of Stanislavski and Brecht.

The Great European Stage Directors Volume 5

Grotowski, Brook, Barba

Edited by Paul Allain, University of Kent, UK

This volume provides a fresh assessment of theatre directors Jerzy Grotowski, Peter Brook and Eugenio Barba, whose work has challenged ideas about what theatre is and does.

Contributors demonstrate how each was instrumental in reinventing theatre's possibilities: where it takes place and who the audience might then be, as well as how actors train and perform, highlighting the importance of the group and collaboration. The volume examines their role in establishing intercultural dialogues and practices.

Consideration is also given to each director's documentation of their practice in print and film and the influence this has had on 21st-century performance.

The Great European Stage Directors Volume 7

Barrault, Mnouchkine, Stein

Edited by Felicia Hardison Londré, University of Missouri-Kansas City, USA

This volume offers a compelling account of Jean-Louis Barrault, Ariane Mnouchkine and Peter

Stein, who not only won international recognition as directors whose repertoires ranged from classical Greek to Shakespeare to the avant-garde, but also succeeded as leaders of their own companies. The ensembles they nurtured and kept afloat despite setbacks represent the artistic vision of each: the Compagnie Madeleine Renaud-Jean-Louis Barrault, the Théâtre du Soleil and the Schaubühne. Selected landmark productions illuminate the achievements of these three directors and their companies.

The Great European Stage Directors Volume 6

Littlewood, Strehler, Planchon

Edited by Clare Finburgh Delijani, Goldsmiths University, UK & Peter M. Boenisch, Aarhus University, Denmark

This volume examines the work of Joan Littlewood, Giorgio Strehler and Roger Planchon, demonstrating how these three directors take up key aesthetic prompts from earlier innovators and thereby prepare the ground for contemporary, politically-engaged 'directors' theatre'. It argues that, in creating their major productions in the 'glorious decades' following the Second World War, they represent a first 'European' generation of theatre directors. Revisiting works from the classical dramatic canon by drawing on popular theatre traditions, and reaching out to spectators beyond the educated middle-class elite, they put theatre in the service of uniting a traumatized continent.

The Great European Stage Directors Volume 8

Bausch, Castellucci, Fabre

Edited by Luk Van den Dries, University of Antwerp, Belgium & Timmy De Laet, University of Antwerp, Belgium

This volume foregrounds Pina Bausch, Romeo Castellucci and Jan Fabre as three leading directors who have each left an indelible mark on post-war European theatre. Combining discussions of the artists' poetics with case studies of famous and lesser-known key works, this volume traces a range of foundational aesthetic strategies that are central to the directors' work: the dynamics of repetition vis-à-vis fragmentation, the continued significance of language in experimental theatre and dance, the tension between theatricality and the performative reality of the stage, and the equal importance attached to text, image and body.

A Cultural History of Comedy in Antiquity

Edited by Michael Ewans, University of Newcastle, Australia

Drawing together contributions from scholars in a wide range of fields within Classics and Drama, this volume traces the development of comedic performance and examines the different characteristics of Greek and Roman comedy. It largely centres on the surviving work of Aristophanes and Menander in Athens, and Plautus and Terence in Rome, but authors whose plays survive only in fragments are also discussed. Ancient comedic performances and plays drew on a range of forms, including satire and fantasy, and were designed to entertain and amuse their audiences while also asking them to question issues of morality, privilege and class.

A Cultural History of Comedy in the Middle Ages

Edited by Martha Bayless, University of Oregon, USA

This volume, covering the period from 1000 to 1400 CE, examines medieval comedy, from the caustic morality of principled satire to the exuberant improprieties of many wildly popular tales of sex and trickery. The analysis includes the most influential authors of the age, such as Chaucer, Boccaccio, Juan Ruiz, and Hrothswitha of Gandersheim, as well as lesser-known works and genres, such as songs of insult, nonsense-texts, satirical church paintings, topical jokes, and obscene pilgrim badges. It analyses most of the literatures of medieval Europe, including a discussion of the formal attitudes toward humor in Christian, Jewish, and Islamic traditions.

A Cultural History of Comedy in the Early Modern Age

Edited by Andrew McConnell Stott, University of Southern California, USA

Drawing together scholars with a range of expertise across the early modern period, this volume explores the rich field of early modern comedy. It argues that it was shaped by cultural transformations including the emergence of the entertainment industry, the rise of the professional comedian, commentaries on the nature of comedy, and the development of printed jestbooks. It satirized a rapidly-changing world and explored questions of gender, authority, identity, and commerce, amongst others. This volume argues that the period saw a complex and contested mix of texts, performances, and concepts, providing a deep tradition that abides to this day.

A Cultural History of Comedy in the Age of Enlightenment

Edited by Elizabeth Kraft, University of Georgia, USA

This volume highlights comedy in England with reference to developments in Europe, particularly France. Discussions emphasize the period's stage comedy and acknowledge comic expression in various forms of print media including the emerging literary form we now know as the novel. Contributions from scholars reflect a wide variety of interests in the field of 18th-century studies, and the inclusion of a generous number of illustrations throughout demonstrates that the period's visual culture was also an important part of the Enlightenment comic landscape.

A Cultural History of Comedy in the Age of Empire

Edited by Matthew Kaiser, University of California, Merced, USA

Drawing together contributions from scholars in a range of fields within 19th- and 20th-century cultural, literary, and theatre studies, this volume explores aesthetic, political, and ethical dimensions to comedy between 1800 and 1920 in the context of blackface minstrelsy, nonsense poetry, music hall and pantomime, comic almanacs and joke books, journalism, silent film, popular novels, and hygiene magazines, among other phenomena. It also provides a detailed account of contentious debates among social Darwinists, psychoanalysts, and political philosophers about the meaning and significance of comedy and laughter to human life.

A Cultural History of Comedy in the Modern Age

Edited by Louise Peacock, De Montfort University, UK

The period covered by this volume was marked by an explosion of comic forms and creativity across a range of media. It covers a range of examples from 1920 to the present day, including plays, film, television comedy, live comedy, and comedy on social media. It considers its role in entertainment and in provoking consideration of a range of social and political topics. Drawing together contributions by scholars from a variety of fields, including theatre, film and television, sociology, and visual culture, this volume explores the range and diversity of comedic performance and comic forms in the modern age.

The (Incomplete) Lit in Colour Play List

Plays written by writers of colour for 11-18 year-olds to study and perform

Can you recommend a play by a writer of colour? Yes, we can

This was a question asked by a teacher at a webinar looking for plays written by writers of colour that are suitable to teach in the classroom. It became the start of Bloomsbury's Partnership in the Lit in Colour campaign - placing the spotlight on plays and drama, and supporting schools to make the teaching and learning of English Literature and Drama more inclusive.

Bloomsbury's first (Incomplete) Lit in Colour Play List features an initial 57 plays written by playwrights of colour from the Methuen Drama portfolio and fellow play publishers, for students to discover, study and perform in the classroom.

With an overview of each play's plot and themes as well as links to additional teaching resources, this Play List is the perfect resource for teachers looking to introduce more diverse plays into their classrooms.

A Cultural History of Comedy

6-Volume Set

Edited by Andrew McConnell Stott, University of Southern California, USA and Eric Weitz, Trinity College Dublin, Ireland

How has our expression, use and reception of comedy developed from antiquity to the present day? What role has it occupied in Western culture, and what can it tell us about how society has changed?

In a work that spans 2,500 years, these ambitious questions are addressed by 55 experts across 6 volumes. The themes explored in each volume are: form, theory, praxis, identities, the body, politics and power, laughter, and ethics. The volumes describe various manifestations of comedy, its use in religion, theatre and literature, and its historical and philosophical significance.

As a whole, the set comprises c.1824 pages and nearly 200 illustrations.

The Great European Stage Directors Set 1

Volumes 1-4: Pre-1950

Edited by Simon Shepherd, Central School of Speech and Drama, UK

These 4 volumes offer an authoritative account of the work, lineage and legacy of the major theatre directors from the late-19th and early-20th centuries. Each volume provides substantial treatment of three major directors, with each considered by two specialists, combining analysis of the director's practical craft with accounts of the historical, cultural and theoretical context of their practice. Links between the featured directors and other artists and directors from the period are traced to round out the picture of influences and artistic development. Among the 12 directors to receive coverage are Stanislavski, Antoine, Meyerhold, Brecht, Copeau, Komisarjevsky, Guthrie and Reinhardt.
